

Xeriscaping and Hardscaping

In hot and dry areas like Texas—Xeriscaping can be your landscaping solution. The technique uses native and adaptive plants, rocks, and other ground cover solutions to reduce water waste and overall usage by focusing on property aspects that don't require watering. Hardscaping is an excellent way to obtain that dream outdoor landscape without the constant worry of plants drying out and reduces the need for irrigation without compromising on the aesthetics.

Xeriscaping and Hardscaping Services

Personalized Consultation and Planning

Step number one is for us to understand your vision, make recommendations and create a plan based on your property preferences. Hardscaping divides your property into sections, where we base our landscaping on maintenance and watering needs. With this method, we can come up with a design that is both cost-effective and easy on the eye.

Strategic Placement of Turf and Grass

An irrigation system is essential when you have grass to care for, but it also leads to significant water consumption. With Xeriscaping, you can still have green turf, but we usually limit grass to areas that serve a purpose. Other areas are filled with other elements requiring less or no watering—hardscaping.

Water Efficient Tree & Plant Selection

Dry climate life doesn't necessarily mean you'll be limited to having cacti and rocks covering your property. There are numerous drought-resistant plants, with the Bonfire Cushion Spurge, Tiger Eyes Sumac, and Diablo Ninebark being three of the best-known options. EarthWorks can assist you with the selection process.

Hardscaping Services

It is easy to think of plants and greenery as a synonym for landscaping. However, hardscaping offers a long list of impressive alternatives that save you water and are easy to maintain.

Necessary Soil Amendments

Water retention in the soil reduces the need for watering, and the best way to promote this is by optimizing the soil conditions on your property before taking any other steps. Our team can offer the latest methods to increase the probability of creating a sustainable outdoor environment.

Landscaping Maintenance

Once everything is installed and set up, EarthWorks is there to help you maintain your Xeriscape yard. Our services include pruning, weeding, and pest management as needed.

We are experts in landscaping methods like Xeriscaping and hardscaping, and we know how to maintain it once everything is installed and in place. Weeding, pest management, and pruning will keep your looking pristine for years.
